PGR Personal Tutors

A Personal Tutor for Research Students is an advisor, independent of the supervision team, who can be consulted by any research student in Informatics who needs advice when facing difficulties in their research that cannot be resolved through normal supervisory mechanisms.

Your PGR Personal Tutors are:

Prof Michael Fourman, Room IF 3.30  Prof Perdita Stevens, Room IF 5.05
Michael.Fourman@ed.ac.uk  Perdita.Stevens@ed.ac.uk

• They can offer advice on certain issues that students may not want / be able to discuss with their supervisors
• They can help point students to various forms of non-academic support and provide practical advice
• They liaison with the Director of the Informatics Graduate School to help resolve problems or difficulties that may arise during the course of your PGR studies.

When supervision problems arise, students can also directly contact their Director of Institute or the (Deputy) Director of the Informatics Graduate School.