Computing in the Classroom (CiC)

Response to the student feedback in 2022/23 course survey

Thanks for the feedback on CiC. Here's my response:

* We'll keep looking for travel opportunities, as students seem to enjoy it, as do learners!

* I'll reword the assignment so that it is clearer about big and small contributions

* On the topic of how much information there is on Learn, and how it relates to the assignment: having marked all the assignments, the students who read the material on Learn tend to do better because they have a stronger understanding of education. Also, remember that assessment needn't drive learning: it is worth learning for its own sake if you are interested in a topic. This is a course where the more you put in (reading and attending classes), the more you get out of it.

Judy Robertson, 10/7/23